

Tucked away on Albert Place, just south of Kensington High Street, Dr Dray's London clinic is central yet discreet. He is now regarded as one of the top cosmetic doctors in the UK, though his career first started on the other side of the Channel. He moved to Paris aged 25, after graduating from the Medical Institution: University Paul Sabatier in Toulouse (founded in 1229 and one of the most prestigious universities in Europe). Shortly afterwards he threw open the doors of his Paris clinic, which is regularly graced by A-listers. His empire continues to grow; this year Dr Dray celebrated the opening of a treatment room at the Bulgari Hotel & Residences Spa in Knightsbridge. A dedicated team there offers mesotherapy and skin peels.

After 25 years in the industry, Dr Dray has garnered international recognition. Here are three reasons to pay him a visit.

NECK LIFT

WHAT? Dr Dray's Neck Lift has been dubbed the 'lunch-hour treatment', thanks to its quick and easy approach. The procedure tackles drooping jowls and skin that has lost elasticity around the neck. Dr Dray's treatment maintains the mobility and vivacity of facial expressions, with results lasting up to two years.

HOW? The incision-free treatment uses biodegradable threads to pull back and lift the sagging skin. Results are instantly visible; treated areas are subtly raised and tightened. During the procedure a local anaesthetic is applied so patients can monitor their Neck Lift according to their desired result.

WHO? For those experiencing early signs of ageing who don't want surgery, or those who have previously had a surgical facelift but are again experiencing sagging around the neck. Take a trip to Dr Dray's clinic, where the dedicated team will talk you through the procedure.

MESOLIFT

WHAT? The non-invasive Mesolift procedure hydrates skin to slow down signs of ageing and give it a healthy glow. Although now it is available at most top cosmetic clinics, it was actually founded by Dr Dray himself.

HOW? A cocktail of amino acids, vitamins A, B, C and E, hyaluronic acid and co-enzymes are injected into the skin, boosting luminosity and texture.

WHO? For those who suffer from a dull or tired-looking complexion, or those whose facial skin has started to lose its firmness.

10-MINUTE FACELIFT

WHAT? This really is as speedy as it sounds. Not a scalpel in sight and exclusive to Dr Dray's clinics, this treatment brings tautness back to the lower half of the face (jowls, chin and cheeks). Journalists across the world have been waxing lyrical about it since it became part of Dr Dray's portfolio.

HOW? Biodegradable chemical injections are infused into the skin's dermis, encouraging it to produce more collagen and plumping it up in areas where it may have become a bit thin. The complexion also immediately becomes smoother and more radiant.

WHO? This works wonders on those with skin that has started to sag around the chin and cheeks. It's not just for the face though; it is brilliant for smoothing wrinkled hands – a tell-tale sign of ageing.
